Carl H. Labiske

Walluski Logging founder, 82

Carl H. Labiske, 82, a lifetime resident of the Astoria area, died Saturday, Nov. 20, in Astoria.

Mr. Labiske was born in Casey, near Youngs River Falls, on June 11, 1911, to Julius and Erestine Henke Labiske. He was raised in the Walluski area.

In Astoria, on May 2, 1942, he married Dorothy Haglund. She survives.

During World War II, he served with the U.S. Coast Guard from May 25, 1942, until he was discharged Oct. 25, 1945. He served some of that time in the South Pacific.

In 1945, along with his brother, he established the Walluski Logging Company, closing the operation in 1952.

Mr. Labiske, with his wife, built the Crest Motel in Astoria, opening it in 1952, and remaining active in it until they retired in 1976.

Mr. Labiske enjoyed traveling, dancing, fishing, boating and playing cards with friends. He will be remembered as a man of active and far-reaching intelligence, strong in mechanical abilities and engineering skills.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by his brothers-in-law and sisters-in-law, Norman and Idamae Forney of Warrenton, Chuck and Marie Haglund of Svensen, Gladys Duncan of Astoria, and Ola Labiske of Astoria. Numerous nieces and nephews and great-nieces and great-nephews also survive.

Friends may pay their respects today until 8 p.m., and Wednesday from 9 a.m. until noon at Caldwell's Luce-Layton Mortuary in Astoria.

Funeral service is 1 p.m. Wednesday in the chapel at the mortuary. Vault interment follows at Greenwood Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Columbia River Maritime Museum or to a charity of choice.

HAROLD L. LAMPA

A well-known resident of Astoria, Harold L. (Harpo) Lampa, 50, of 740 Florence, died Friday evening in a local hospital after an extended illness.

Lampa was born April 1, 1914, in Ilwaco, Wash., the son of Anton and Emma Lampa. He came to Astoria from Ilwaco with his parents, at the age of eight months and had resided here since. He attended grade and high school in Astoria and played football while in high school.

For the past 10 years, Lampa had been a dispatcher for the local longshore office. Prior to this time, he had fished with his father and later operated his own fishing boat, the Betty K, in both this area and in Alaska.

Lampa was married September 14, 1936, in Vancouver, Wash., to the former Taimi Palo, who survives him and resides at the family home at 740 Florence.

He was a member of the Longshoremen's union, Local 50, of Astoria.

Besides his widow, Taimi, Lampa is survived by two sons, John and Jeffrey Lampa, both of Astoria; his mother, Mrs. Emma Lampa, Astoria, and two granddaughters.

Services are planned for Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. and are being announced by the Luce-Layton Funeral Home.

Charles Lampsa

An Astoria resident and longshoreman for more than 50 years, Charles Lampsa, 84, died Sunday morning in an Astoria hospital where he had been a patient for two years.

On June 21, 1891, he was born in Saraisniemi, Veneheitto, Finland, the son of Jussi and Katri Karjalainen Lampsa.

He received his education there.

In 1911 he came to Knappton, Wash., where he worked in the Knappton Mill for two years. He then moved to the East Coast where he worked in steel mills.

On Dec. 21, 1917, he was married to Suoma Jarvinen in Worcester, Mass. They came to Astoria in 1918 and he went into commercial fishing for several years.

He then worked as a longshoreman until he retired. Mrs. Lampsa died in Astoria July 28, 1967.

Lampsa was a member of ILWU Local 50.

Surviving are two brothers, Jussi and Heikki Lampsa, both living in Finland; four cousins, Anna Huntus, Alice Williams, and Paul Merila, all of Astoria, and Fannie Mattila of Warrenton; and six nieces.

Funeral services will be Tuesday at 10:30 a.m.; arrangements in care of Hughes-Ransom Mortuary, Astoria.

Edward 'Ed' Louis Larsen

Clatskanie businessman, 101

Edward "Ed" Louis Larsen, 101, Clatskanie's most senior citizen, died Sunday, Jan. 24, 1999, in Clatskanie.

Mr. Larsen was born Dec. 23, 1897. in Linnton to Nels and Louise Marie Jensen Larsen. At age 2 he moved with his parents to Clatskanie in 1900. He attended local schools and played basketball and baseball, which he played into his mid-40s. He graduated from Clatskanie High School in 1916, and began college at Oregon State University. He majored in business and played on the freshman basketball team.

After a couple years of college he returned to Clatskanie to work on his parents' farm, then for the Benson Timber company railroad and later as a railroad surveyor for the Interstate Commerce Commission in various locations around the country.

Following the United States' entry into World War I, he came home to enlist, but was surprised to fail the Marine Corps vision test, family members say. Later Mr. Larsen was accepted into the U.S. Army tank corps, but by that time the war was nearly over and he was quickly discharged.

After the war he returned to Oregon State and graduated with a degree in business administration in 1922. Mr. Larsen came back to Clatskanie and held a series of jobs, including in the cookhouse at the Big Creek logging camp.

He ran a filling station and sold Hudson and Essex cars in 1928 for then Clatskanie businessman Walt Kerry. He eventually bought the station and dealership, thus beginning a 40-year career that ended with his retirement in the late 1960s.

Mr. Larsen and other local businessmen started the Clatskanie Kiwanis Club in 1928. Family members say he was the last surviving charter member and had an unblemished "perfect attendance" record for more than 69 years.

Mr. Larsen was active in many community service projects, including Boy Scouts, Clatskanie City Council, and many Kiwanis events. He was a regular at Clatskanie sports games and an Oregon State football and basketball fan, as well as a longtime member of the Beaver Club. He held season tickets since the early 1950s, family members say. OSU honored his longtime support when Mr. Larsen was approaching his 100th birthday.

He continued to play golf until his mid-90s. Mr. Larsen visited care centers and friends often. In honor of his 100th birthday and by proclamation of the City of Clatskanie, Dec. 23, 1997, was celebrated as "Ed Larsen Day."

Mr. Larsen is survived by his wife, Dorothy Larsen; a son, Rich Larsen of Clatskanie; a daughter, Carol Farnes of Corvallis; four grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren.

A celebration of life service is 11 a.m. Saturday at the Haakinson-Groulx Mortuary Chapel in Clatskanie.

The Larsens recently established two trusts, one for college scholarships for Clatskanie-area students and the other for Scouting-related projects, which will be administered by the Clatskanie Foundation. Memorial contributions may be made to the Ed and Dorothy Larsen Scholarship Fund at the Clatskanie Foundation, P.O. Box 1052, Clatskanie, OR.

Attack on Board Fish Boat Fatal For Area Worker

Tony Lasich, well known lower [illegible] long time Clifton resident, died at 3:30 a. m. aboard his fishing boat about a mile west of Aldrich point. He had apparently felt the heart attack coming on and had stopped the power net picking roller before he collapsed. Nearby fisherman noticed the strange behavior of the boat and on finding Lasich dead, brought the boat in to Clifton. He had been in a hospital periodically during the past several years because of a heart ailment.

Lasich was born February 18, 1893 in Vis, Dalmatia, Yugoslavia, where he grew to manhood. He had fished in the old country before coming to Portland in 1912 as a young man of 18. From then until 1924, he fished out of Clifton and then for a few years, fished from San Diego, returning to Clifton in 1932 where he had since made his home.

Lasich was married in January, 1949, to Mrs. Yerka Lasich, widow of his brother who had died several years earlier. He was a member of St. Mary's Catholic church. Lasich had fished for CRPA during his entire fishing career here.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Yerka Lasich, Clifton; a brother, Marenco Lasich in Yugoslavia, and the nieces and nephews, Phillip, Clifton; Nick, Seattle, and John Lasich, Portland; Mrs. Mary Maine, Portland; Mrs. Lucy Yost, Forest Grove and Mrs. Winifred Hunsaker, Seattle.

Details of services which are to be held Thursday morning, will be announced by the Hughes-Ransom mortuary, where the recitation of the rosary will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

OUT of the Depths have I cried unto Thee, O Lord: Lord, hear my voice.

Let Thine ears be attentive to the voice of my supplication.

If Thou, O Lord, wilt mark iniquities, Lord, who shall abide it?

For with Thee there is merciful forgiveness: and by reason of Thy Law, have I waited for Thee, O Lord.

My soul hath relied on His word: my soul hath hoped in the Lord.

From the morning watch even until night: let Israel hope in the Lord.

Because with the Lord there is mercy: and with Him plenteous redemption.

And He shall redeem Israel from all his iniquities.

TWENTY-THIRD
PSALM

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures:
He leadeth me beside the still waters.
He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake . .
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil:
for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies:
thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over . . Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever . . . . .

Agatha 'Babe' Ella May

Former Astorian, 96

Agatha "Babe" Ella May, 96, of Oak Harbor, Wash., formerly of Astoria, died Tuesday, Jan. 5, 1999, after a brief illness at Pasek Family Home in Oak Harbor.

Mrs. May was born March 20, 1902, in Sigel, Ill., to George Gregory and Anna Marie Adelhart May. She remembered a tough childhood on the family farm, her mother dying when she was young and the farm being sold, family members say. She moved in with her sister, Alice, until her marriage.

On July 6, 1921, she married Henry Clarence May on July 6, 1921. He died Sept. 19, 1978. The Mays moved west to Astoria with her sister and family in 1924 in a Model-T Ford.

"Babe," as she was called by family, lived in Astoria until 1976. She was employed for many years in fish canneries in the community, before the couple moved to Oak Harbor to live with their daughter, Evelyn May Thompson. After her husband's death, Mrs. May resided part of the year in Oak Harbor and the other part in Seaside with her older sister. After her sister's death in 1986, she moved permanently to Oak Harbor.

Mrs. May was known for her keen sense of humor and enjoyed by all, family members say. She was a member of St. Augustine's Catholic Church in Oak Harbor and St. Mary Star of the Sea Catholic Church in Astoria.

Surviving Mrs. May (affectionately known as "Little Grandma," family members say) are a daughter and son, Evelyn Thompson of Oak Harbor, and Leland May of Ivy Station; six granddaughters, Sherrilee Thompson Van Schaick of Macon, Ga., Melissa Thompson Alexander of Edmonds, Wash., Sandra May Belt of Longview, Wash., Tabitha May of Pasadena, Texas, and Deanne and Heide May of Astoria; and seven grandsons, Tommy Thompson of Huntsville, Ala., Noel Thompson of Springboro, Ohio, Daniel May of Dover, Ohio, Anthony and Frederick May, both of Astoria, Donald May and Julian May, both of Texas. Four sisters and a son, George May, died earlier.

Mrs. May's ashes will be interred at Ocean View Cemetery in Warrenton on Saturday during a private family ceremony.

A Rosary will be said 3 p.m. Tuesday at Evelyn Thompson's residence 543 S.E. Fourth Ave., Oak Harbor.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Oak Harbor Senior Center.

Burley Funeral Chapel in Oak Harbor is in charge of arrangements.

In Loving Memory
of
Neil Mendenhall,Sr.
8-10-34 to 12-14-92

While it hurts to see you've gone away
I know that now you're free.
And until we meet another day
You're still a part of me.

I wish I could have known,
you were leaving on that day,
There are so many things
I would have liked to say.

But still there is a part of you, here, frozen in my heart.
I know the Lord has put it there for when we had to part.

I'll see you in your daughter's smile,
I see you in your son.
I will find comfort in the knowledge that your new life has begun.

riday service to honor five victims

WARRENTON — A Friday memorial service for e Warrenton High School students who died last ek will be open to the public, said a spokesman the group organizing the service.

The half-hour service, sponsored by the Warren- n Ministerial Association, will begin at 2:15 p.m. the high school gymnasium, said Rev. Dan ickelson, pastor of The Philadelphia Church in mmond. Mickelson is a member of the associa- n, a group of church pastors in the Warren- n-Hammond area.

The five students were among six teen-agers lled last Friday in an automobile accident near e Fort Clatsop Road intersection of state ghway 105, also known as Alternate U.S. ghway 101. The five were Timothy W. Morgan, son Christopher Hurl, Darren E. Godwin, Cory ngaman-Storey and Kenneth Mahialani Goin.

Mickelson said the service would begin with an vocation by the Rev. George Spencer, pastor of e Warrenton Church of the Nazarene.

The Warrenton High School Choir will then rform, followed by a student reading of a written bute.

Mickelson said the choir performance and the written tribute were included as a "vital expression" from the student body after the tragic loss.

The service will continue with a song presentation by Ginger and Lisa Bowman, students at Lewis and Clark Christian Academy of Astoria. The memorial message will then be given by Doug Marshall, pastor of the Warrenton Church of Christ.

After the message there will be a moment o silence in memory of the students, followed by a closing prayer from the Rev. Ed Bussert, pastor of First Baptist Church of Warrenton.

Afterward, the pastors will be available to provide counseling to any who desire it, Mickelson said.

He said gifts of flowers would be acceptable for the service, or remembrances may be made to assist the victims' families. Such gifts can be made to a memorial fund, in care of the high school, for which cards will be available at the service. A separate memorial fund was established this week at the Bank of Astoria's Marine Drive Branch by a local business.

Mancebo was the spark of the Clatsop County democrats

If ever there was a Clatsop County democrat in need, or any democrat for that matter, Niki Mancebo was the one called upon to help.

And she did it with an endless energy her friends and colleagues have come to marvel of the Gearhart democrat, 55, who died Friday, June 13, in Seaside, of cancer.

"Niki was a real go-getter," said Rep. Tim Josi, D-Bay City. "She was a true democrat. If we had people like her in every county, the Democratic Party would be something to reckon with. She had the ability to really deliver votes in Clatsop County."

Mancebo was in her second term as chairwoman of the Clatsop County Democratic Central Committee, which she began chairing in November 1994.

"She was very dedicated because the chairperson's job isn't always an easy one," said Gearhart resident Bunny Doar, a member of the Clatsop County Democratic Central Committee.

Doar remembers Mancebo as instrumental in the committee's projects, especially fund raising and calling members to remind them of meetings and upcoming events.

"Niki helped get Clatsop County posters designed last year to sell for a fund-raiser," Doar said. "She even got a couple of them signed by President Clinton and Al Gore."

When Mancebo wasn't out and about raising money for democratic candidates, say, by selling sweatshirts for the state Democratic Convention held two years ago in Seaside, she was helping them with their campaigns.

"I remember how she helped me with my campaign posters," reminisced Josi. "Putting them up is always a tough job, but all I had to do was drop the signs off at Niki's and she found the volunteers to distribute them."

Mancebo's dedication to politics found its way into the Clatsop County Democratic Central Committee and revitalized it.

"Niki got things to happen because she took the lead and got people interested, " says Doug Sweet, a member. "She had the idea to say, 'we need some grassroots organization here'. She was always putting ideas together for the group to contemplate."

In August 1996, Mancebo attended the Democratic National Convention in Chicago as a representative of Clatsop County.

"Niki Mancebo will be greatly missed by those of us who were so well served by her talents and her commitment to the Democratic Party of Clatsop County and of Oregon," said Rep. Jackie Taylor, D-Astoria. "She was a 'spark plug' for candidates and a tireless worker for issues she cared for passionately."

Mrs. Mattson had many memories of growing up on the banks of the Columbia River at Altoona, particularly of unloading fishing boats by herself.

After receiving her education, she taught in Cordova, Alaska, before returning to the local area where she taught in Portland and later in Knappa and Astoria. She retired and moved to Ocean Park 25 years ago. 10-9-97

On April 7, 1938, she married Bert Mattson. He died earlier.

Mrs. Mattson was a member of Pacific Chapter Order of Eastern Star in Ilwaco, Wash., the American Association of Retired Persons, Business and Professional Women Organization and the Peninsula Garden Club. She loved to travel, garden and was a prolific baker. Throughout her life she maintained an interest in young people and their educational needs. Another life-long interest of Mrs. Mattson was the fishing and seafood industry. She enjoyed seafoods of all types.

She is survived by two sisters, Gladys Carlson of Astoria and Ruth Gustafson of Arizona; and numerous nieces and nephews.

A graveside service is 1 p.m. Tuesday at Ilwaco Cemetery. A memorial service is 1 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 18, at Penttila's Chapel by the Sea in Long Beach with a reception following.

Memorial contributions may be made to Sea Resources, P.O. Box 187, Chinook, WA 98614.

Jessie May Marchand

Fish business owner, 83

Jessie May Marchand, 83, a longtime Long Beach (Wash.) Peninsula resident, died Tuesday, Feb. 16, 1999, in Palm Springs, Calif.

Mrs. Marchand was born Jan. 18, 1916, in Star, Idaho, to Sylvanus and Capatola Bothwell McPherson. At an early age, she moved with her parents to Seaside, where she grew up during the Great Depression days. She lived briefly in Portland, where she graduated from high school. Mrs. Marchand attended Linfield College.

Returning to Seaside, she met and married E.C. Dunning, who owned Seaside Clam Co. After his death, she continued operation of the business.

On Sept. 5, 1945, she married Albert Marchand, a Navy flyer stationed at the Astoria Airport. He survives. Together they continued the operation of Seaside Clam Co., moving to Ilwaco, Wash., in 1962. There, the Marchands purchased Ilwaco Fish Co., renaming it Jessie's Ilwaco Fish. Operation of Seaside Clam was discontinued in 1966.

Family members say Mrs. Marchand prided herself on her hands-on operation of Ilwaco Fish. Up until last year, she was active in the operation, and during the summer months, personally handled the retail operation on the Ilwaco docks. She was well-known and respected in the seafood processing industry for her hard work and dedication to her business, family members say.

When not busy working, Mrs. Marchand enjoyed gardening. During the winter months, she lived in California, where she liked looking for Indian artifacts in the desert.

In addition to her husband of 53 years, Mrs. Marchand is survived by two sons, Pierre and Philippe Marchand, both of Seaview, Wash.; a daughter and son-in-law, Denise and Doug Ross of Ilwaco; a brother, Hugh McPherson of Las Vegas; five sisters, Retta Phelps of Lacey, Wash., Margie Hughson of Portland, Myrtle Rae of Wenatchee, Wash., Emma Baker of Roseburg, and Zelma Hanson of Vancouver, Wash.; and two grandchildren, Heather and Collin Ross. A sister and brother died earlier.

A memorial Mass is 10 a.m. Friday, March 5, at St. Mary's Parish in Seaview.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Ocean Beach Education Foundation or St. Mary's Parish in care of Penttila's Chapel by the Sea, P.O. Box 417, Long Beach, WA 98631.

The Lord's Prayer

Our Father who art in heaven,
Hallowed be thy name.
Thy kingdom come,
Thy will be done,
On earth as it is in heaven.
Give us this day our daily bread;
And forgive us our debts,
As we also have forgiven our debtors;
And lead us not into temptation,
But deliver us from evil.
For thine is the kingdom
And the power and the glory,
For ever. Amen.

Carmel Theresa Moore

Rosary maker, 92

Carmel Theresa Moore, 92, of Astoria, died Monday, Aug. 2, in Astoria.

Mrs. Moore was born Dec. 10, 1900, to Albert and Lena Root Anderson in Saginaw. Soon after her birth she and her family moved to Eugene were she grew up and attended school. In 1929, Mrs. Moore moved to San Francisco. In 1935, she began working for Catholic religious-supply stores; first with Benzergers, then O'Connors, and then with McCoy Church Goods Store as a buyer for books and cards. She remained there for 25 years before retiring in 1973, and moving to Astoria. 8-6-93

Mrs. Moore became well-known for making rosaries; she also was quite a seamstress, making numerous altar cloths and, on occasion, vestments and leather book covers. She even possessed the skills to repair broken statues. Her handmade rosaries ranged from plastic to crystal, from pearl beads and metal joiners and crosses, and the numbered too many to count.

After coming to Astoria, Mrs. Moore continued to make rosaries for those who would use them. She also tutored students in reading at the Star of the Sea school and attended daily masses as often as she could. During her younger years, she was fond of dancing. She will always be remembered as a giver and a doer and a mother who was always there for her family.

She was a member of Carmelite Third Order in San Francisco, St. Mary Star of the Sea Catholic Church, St. Jude Circle, the Legion of Mary, the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women and the Altar Society.

Mrs. Moore is survived by a daughter, Ellen J. Maples of Florence; a daughter and son-in-law, Pauline and Phillip Switzer of Astoria; a brother and sister-in-law, Lester and Darlene Anderson of Brea, Calif.; eight grandchildren; 19 great-grandchildren; eight great-great-grandchildren; and six nephews.

Recitation of the Rosary will be Tuesday at 11:30 a.m. at St. Mary Star of the Sea. Memorial Mass will follow at noon.

A reception will be held following the ceremonies in the Star of the Sea school auditorium.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Clatsop Care Center, Star of the Sea School or St. Mary's Church.

Alfred S. McCorkle

Outdoorsman, 74

Alfred S. McCorkle, 74, of Ocean Park, Wash., died Thursday, Nov. 11, in Ocean Park.

Mr. McCorkle was born on Sept. 28, 1919, on the family farm in Lexington, Wash., to a pioneer family in the area. The community of Lexington was named by his great-grandfather W.A.L. McCorkle. His parents were Alfred Stewart Sr. and Alice Hazel Hull McCorkle.

Mr. McCorkle graduated from Kelso (Wash.) High School in 1937, and from the University of Washington in 1941. In 1944, he graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point, N.Y. He played right guard on the Army football team and took pride that he had run interference for the legendary running back, Glenn Davis.

On Sept. 9, 1944, he married Joyce Ann Matthews at Fort Knox, Ky. He often said he "married the colonel's daughter." She survives.

He left the Army to join his brother, father and uncle in the McCorkle Bros. Logging Company in north Pacific County, living in Raymond at the time. Later, he and his brother moved to Canada to log.

Returning to Washington following a logging accident, the family lived in Kirkland, Wash., where he worked in construction and real estate. He was an avid outdoorsman who hunted and fished.

The family lived in Everett, Wash., for five years before moving to Ocean Park where generations of the family have owned vacation property since 1903. The McCorkles completed their retirement home in 1985, and had lived there since.

Mr. McCorkle is a 50-year Mason, life member of Kelso Lodge No. 94 AF & AM, Afifi Temple of Tacoma, member of the Association of Graduates of the U.S. Military Academy, life-member of the University of Washington Alumni Association, life-member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, member of Beta Psi fraternity, and a founder and past-president of the Batnuni Wildlife Society.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a sister Jane Kidder of Bothell, Wash.; a daughter, Patricia McCorkle of Montgomery, Ala., two daughters and sons-in-law, Nancy Jane and Philip R. Johnson and Teresa Joyce and Paul M. Higuchi, all of Seattle; two sons and daughters-in-law, James Matthews and Chong McCorkle of Sunnyside, Wash., and Edward Stewart and Molly MacCorkle of Nahcotta, Wash.; 13 grandchildren; and numerous cousins, nieces and nephews. His brother, Mark McCorkle, died earlier.

At Mr. McCorkle's request, there will be no services. Memorial contributions may be made to Harbors Home Health Care and Hospice, P.O. Box 716, Ilwaco, Wash., 98624, or a charity of choice. Penttila's Chapel by the Sea, Long Beach, Wash., is in charge of arrangements.

Astoria 15-year-old dies suddenly

Andrew Nygaard

By SUE CODY
Of The Daily Astorian

Andrew Nygaard, 15, an athlete and student who had just graduated from Astoria Middle School, collapsed at Seaside's Sunset Pool Friday and died of cardiac problems at Providence Seaside Hospital.

Further tests were being conducted to determine exactly what caused the cardiac problems that caused his death Friday, state medical examiner Dr. Larry Lewman said this morning.

Andrew had been swimming with the North Coast Swim Club, which had held a "light workout" in the water from 4 to 5:30 p.m., said Mary Blake, Sunset Empire Park and Recreation District general manager. The team had been doing "dry land" drills on the pool deck for about 20 minutes. Andrew, who was standing by the deep end of the pool, and another team member were tossing a "medicine ball," which Blake described as a little larger than a water polo ball.

Andrew caught the ball, looked up and collapsed about 5:39 p.m., Blake said. Witnesses told her his eyes rolled back before he fell. He hit his head on the deck, but Lewman said that did not lead to his death. Seaside police Officer Keith Roys said witnesses indicated Andrew had complained of being tired and feeling weak.

Blake said two coaches quickly used an air bag to assist Andrew, who was gasping. Medix ambulance paramedics took over resuscitation efforts and took him to Providence Seaside Hospital, where he was pronounced dead about an hour later. He had no known history of health problems.

"Every since he was a little person ... he was a state of grace," Blake remembered of Andrew, who joined the swim program when he was 7. "He was just a beautiful, beautiful person. He modeled such good core values for the rest of the kids. He took care of the little ones if anyone was pushing them around. He was the coach's athlete, he listen to his training coaches, did his workouts and was respectful of the entire team process."

Andrew was someone who "exuded positive energy," said Max Bigby, Andrew's track and field coach and teacher at Astoria Middle School. "He set the standard by which we were all going to strive for. He never let down and would always try to do better. He had so much enthusiasm."

Bigby said he found the news of Andrew's death "unfathomable." "People are shell-shocked."

Community members gathered in an attempt to process the shocking news of losing someone who was young, physically fit and a friend to many. Students and parents convened at a home on Friday night and at a "safe room," set up at Astoria Middle School Saturday and Sunday where Astoria School District employees trained in grief counseling were available.

More than 60 students and many parents, including Andrew's parents, Judy and Dave, and sister, Melissa, participated in sharing stories, memories and grief at the middle school both days. "We thought we went there for Melissa," said Judy Nygaard. "It ended up that it helped us."

Andrew: Community offers support

Counselors from Seaside School District's crisis team were also at the Bob Chisholm Community Center in Seaside.

At Astoria Middle School, a piece of butcher paper was spread on a table for kids to write messages about Andrew and to his family. The sentiments reflected an incredible mourning for someone who had touched many lives. Several students described Andrew as their best friend.

"He had a lot of friends for the short time he was here," Judy Nygaard said. "I hope he knew that."

Grappling with grief, students wrote they had been inspired by Andrew, a shy teen-ager who some say never uttered a bad word about anybody. "He was always congratulating kids on how well they did," remarked Candy Drury, a middle school teacher. "He had a kind, tender heart," added Marilyn Knowlson, a counselor.

Andrew was an outstanding athlete who set many swimming and running records at the school. He swam on the North Coast Swim Club at Seaside and was looking forward to swimming on the Astoria High School team this winter, according to Carla Oja, coach of the high school team.

"He was a very talented swimmer and focused the majority of time to that sport. We were looking forward to having him," said Oja.

"Andrew was gifted at track," said friend Steven Ellsberg, "but swimming was his passion."

Mayor Willis Van Dusen called Andrew "the most talented swimmer Astoria has ever produced," and dedicated the ribbon-cutting and opening celebration of the Astoria Aquatics Center Saturday in the teen's memory. A table inside the center had a poster of Andrew running and one of him posed kneeling.

The poster read, "We love you Andrew and we'll miss you." Underneath were swim caps from the North Coast Swim Club and the Astoria High swim team. Several children lamented that Andrew never saw the new pool, which the Nygaards helped financially support.

The Nygaard family is very involved in their children's activities. "Judy was the most devoted mother," said Buelle Rasmussen. Judy Nygaard would spend entire days as a helper in her children's classrooms when they attended Gray Elementary School. Trips to Seaside practices and swim meets were routine.

"His parents have always been there for him," reported Bigby, who felt fortunate to have Judy along the recent middle school trip to Washington, D.C. He added that Dave was also supportive, often working behind the scenes in efforts that affected many students, not just his own.

"Coaching Andrew was a pleasure," said Bigby. "He never said a bad word about anybody. He had so much potential. You don't often see kids who have ability and their head on straight. So many times kids have athletic tools, but not determination, goal-setting and stick-to-it-iveness to make you good. Really good. I had incredible hopes for that kid."

Bigby added that he thought Andrew would be the same class runner as University of Oregon's Steve Prefontaine.

Steven recalled meeting Andrew when he was 4 years old. Steven was outside chasing his dog. "I heard a squeaking voice from next door and he (Andrew) was up in the window." Andrew told Steven he wasn't allowed to cross the street but did it anyway. "He was always a lot faster than me, and caught the dog," Steven said. The two were fast friends from that moment on and enjoyed swimming, fishing, computer games and Nintendo.

"He was like a person most like a little kid," Steven said. When others were too old to play tag, board games or "get mucky in the woods," Andrew was always willing to play.

The Nygaards often took Steven on outings with them – to Blazers games, Jet Skiing or out to dinner. "They're so great," Steven said, "The best family he could have. He loved his sister and his parents." Steven reported that Andrew fought with his sister, but would say good things behind her back.

Steven said meeting with other kids in the "safe room," was something "I didn't want to go through. It's kind of hard. It's good to comfort other people. Others are sadder, because they didn't know him as well. I'm just happy I got to know him."

Judy and Dave Nygaard have kept their door open to visitors and said they appreciate the outpouring of support of community members who have brought food, cards and flowers.

Cheryl Johnson, Astoria Middle School librarian, said, "My favorite image of Andrew was watching him run from across the track. It just takes your breath away. It is so beautiful."

A service has been set for 1:30 p.m. Thursday at Astoria Middle School. Hughes-Ransom Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

Bernard 'Ben' Eugene Niedermeyer

Lumber businessman, 76

Bernard "Ben" Eugene Niedermeyer, 76, of Seaside died Tuesday, Aug. 26, 1997, in Seaside.

Bernard Eugene Niedermeyer

Mr. Niedermeyer was born May 14, 1921, in Portland to Bernard Eugene Sr. and Tessie Martin Niedermeyer. He was the eldest of 15 siblings. He attended Madeleine School and graduated in 1939 from St. Stephens. He attended the University of Portland. During the time Mr. Niedermeyer was in school he was introduced to the business world. After school he would work at his father's lumber company and at the same time had three paper routes, one early in the morning, one in the afternoon and one in the evening. He had his own earthworm business. He went from park to park in the summer to collect dew worms. He did good worm business with Meier and Frank. All year he saved orange crates and stored them in a rented garage and then sold them for 50 cents each at the Rose Festival. At Christmas he sold Christmas trees and did big business in evergreen swags, which he made himself.

He took his first order for lumber in San Jose at the age of 16. As a youth he had very little time for play.

Mr. Niedermeyer joined the service and was sent to Carroll College in Helena, Mont., as a cadet in the Navy's V-12 program. Carroll College sent him to Harvard Business School for officers. Upon graduation, he was commissioned an officer in the U.S. Naval Reserves and assigned to a CB Battalion as a supply officer in the Pacific.

After the war, he returned to the lumber business and eventually was president of five corporations in Oregon and Washington. He was an arbitrator in lumber disputes between unions and employers.

Mr. Niedermeyer helped all except one of his brothers and sisters to obtain a college degree, and never gave up his desire to get one of his own. He accumulated grades at many schools, including Northwestern School of Law, Portland Community College and Clatsop Community College. On May 13, 1989, he received a bachelor of arts degree with a major in business administration at Carroll College. A niece from Seattle was in the same graduating class.

He served on the board of Marylhurst College, the Benedictine Sisters of Mt. Angel, Catholic Services in Portland, and Calaroga Terrace. He was president of the Sierra Club in 1958, and served as many officers in the Knights of Columbus, including District Deputy and Grand Knight from 1981-1982. He was one of the originators of Blanchet House in Portland. In 1964, he was in the Who's Who in the West and in 1967, World Who's Who in Commerce and Industry. He served on the AARP Board, Portland chapter, and has been president of the Seaside chapter. Mr. Niedermeyer was a former member of the Providence Seaside Hospital, Rural Transit Assistance Program. He served a four-year term, appointed by the governor, on the State Mortuary and Cemetery Board.

He was a member of Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church in Seaside.

In addition to his wife, Margaret of Portland, Mr. Niedermeyer is survived by a former wife and mother of his nine children, Elma Sullivan of Beaverton; five daughters, Mary Flanagan of Portland, Patti Hoff of Beaverton, Carlin Gram of Portland, Sharon Creasy of Ketchikan, Alaska, and Bernadette Lisac of Beaverton; four sons, Ben Niedermeyer III of Lincoln, Mass., Dennis and Matt Niedermeyer of King Salmon, Alaska, and Michael Niedermeyer of Alameda, Calif.; 13 brothers and sisters; 27 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. A granddaughter, Kiki Niedermeyer, died earlier.

Visitation hours are noon to 5 p.m. today at Hughes-Ransom Seaside Chapel.

A Rosary is 6:30 tonight at Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church. Friday at 11 a.m. is a Mass of Resurrection at the St. Mary Magdalene Catholic Church in Portland.

Committal is 3 p.m. Friday at the Willamette National Cemetery in Portland.

Hughes-Ransom Mortuary and Crematory is in charge of arrangements.

Sarah Francis O'Neil

Long Beach, Wash., resident, 100

Sarah Francis O'Neil, 100, of Long Beach, Wash., died Friday, Aug. 18, 2000, in Long Beach.

Mrs. O'Neil was born Jan. 6, 1900, in Prescott, Wash., a small farming community. She attended school in Prescott.

She married her longtime friend and classmate James O'Neil on May 15, 1920. At the time he was working in Bend as a Linotype operator. He died in 1981.

The family moved from Bend to Long Beach in 1930. The O'Neils purchased 1.98 acres on Peninsula Road (now Sandridge) for $800. This price included a "fixer-upper" home, which the family renovated and lived in for 13 years. In later years, two other homes were built on the land and Mrs. O'Neil resided on the original family land.

Her husband established Midway Printery in 1933, and in 1937 the O'Neils purchased the Chinook Observer newspaper, which he operated until 1963 when he sold it to his son, Wayne O'Neil.

Mrs. O'Neil was a homemaker who enjoyed cooking, sewing, hooking and braiding rugs and tending her flower and vegetable garden. Family members say her grandchildren were a special delight and she babysat whenever possible. Mrs. O'Neil was a 15-year member of the Long Beach Presbyterian Church's Monday Circle, which brought new friends and activities into her life. She was a member of the American Legion Auxiliary for many years.

Mrs. O'Neil is survived by a daughter, Carol O'Neil of Long Beach; a son, Brian O'Neil of Elma, Wash.; five grandchildren; and six great-grandchildren. A son, Wayne O'Neil, died in 1998. Mrs. O'Neil was the last surviving sibling. Her brother, Thomas Painter, sisters, Beryl Golliher, Eleanor Hawks and Catharine Wheelon, a half-brother, Harry Painter, and two half-sisters, Emma Couch and Ora Painter, died earlier.

GILLNETTER

A Wave Goodbye

Victor Olson
Commercial fisherman, 73

Victor Olson, 73, of Seaside, died Wednesday, Oct. 29, 1997, in Seaside.

Mr. Olson was born Nov. 25, 1923, in Astoria to Victor and Myrtle Hanson Olson. He was raised in Svensen and other local rural areas as his father was the fire warden for the state. His grandfather, Peter Olson, was an original homesteader for the Hillcrest area in Svensen and donated the land for the Svensen Pioneer Cemetery.

Mr. Olson graduated from Knappa High School in 1942. He was active in sports and served as student body president his senior year. After high school, he served in the Navy during World War II. On April 28, 1945, he married his high school sweetheart, June Johansen in Long Beach, Calif., prior to his discharge from the Navy. She survives.

Commercial fishing was his major occupation for most of his life. He skippered his own vessels both in Alaska as a seiner and the Columbia River as a gillnetter. He built one of the first fiberglass gillnet boats on the Columbia River in 1972. Marine construction and furnace installation were his other occupations.

Mr. Olson was a sports enthusiast and followed his favorite teams faithfully. He enjoyed hunting and didn't miss a season. Upon retirement, he liked to travel coast to coast in his recreational vehicle. His family says they will miss his sense of humor and powerful presence.

He is survived by three sons, Victor Olson of Svensen, Brian Olson of Montgomery, Ala., and Charles Olson of Mercer Island, Wash.; a daughter, Julienne Foster of Kauai, Hawaii; a sister, Rosie Belton of Knappa; seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild; and numerous nieces and nephews.

At his request, no services were held. Memorial contributions may be made to Fisherman's Memorial Park.

Knappa man dies in logging accident

3-2-88

A Knappa man died Tuesday evening as a result of injuries suffered in a logging accident in the Brownsmead area that morning.

Danny William Patterson, 40, Route 2 Box 453, died at 8:05 at Emanuel Hospital in Portland.

He had sustained severe head and internal injuries and had undergone surgery Tuesday afternoon at the hospital.

Patterson was attempting to fell a large tree at 10:25 a.m. for Kelly Contract Cutting when a smaller tree came down as well, hitting Patterson across his back and the back of his head, said Mark Lamphiear, operations manager for Medix Ambulance Service.

The accident occurred far up a logging road off Aldrich Point Road about two miles southeast of Brownsmead. Lamphiear estimated the smaller tree's diameter at 4 to 6 inches.

Patterson was flown to Emanuel by a U.S. Coast Guard helicopter. Normally, the Coast Guard does not respond to emergencies that are not maritime-related. However, a Life Flight medical helicopter from Portland had to turn back because of weather, so the Coast Guard assisted in the attempted rescue, said Chief Petty Officer Paul Putkey of the Coast Guard's Air Station Astoria.

Lamphiear said emergency workers had to carry the unconscious Patterson about a quarter of a mile up from a canyon to a clearing. There, the Dolphin helicopter hoisted him and a Medix employee inside at 12:13 p.m.

At 12:38, the helicopter arrived at Emanuel, where Patterson immediately underwent surgery because his breathing had stopped completely moments before the arrival, Lamphiear said.

Astoria cable TV, radio pioneer succumbs at 82

Leroy Edward "Ed" Parsons, 82, a former Astoria resident and cable television pioneer who lived in Fairbanks, Alaska, died Tuesday in Fairbanks.

Parsons was born Jan. 28, 1907, in Latourell Falls and attended school in Corbett. He began working as a telephone engineer for the Latourell Falls phone company and went on to work for an ice and heating company in Portland for a short time before moving to Astoria.

While living in Astoria he developed a method for making bleu cheese that duplicated a method used in France. Then he worked for radio station KVAS and developed a radio system for West Coast airlines for plane-to-ground communications.

In 1948, Parsons started experimenting with television. He was able to pick up a signal from Seattle's KING-TV on Coxcomb Hill and then relay the signal via cable. He developed the cable television system still used in the Astoria area. A monument at the Astoria Column park commemorates his achievement.

In 1952, he sold the system and moved to Fairbanks because of his health. In Alaska he had worked for Wien Airlines and developed a radio communicaton system for bush pilots. He continued that work for a number of years, then developed a system for receiving television reception in areas out of range of normal satellite reception.

During the Vietnam War, Parsons was a civilian working for barge companies bringing supplies to the U.S. Army troops. During the oil boom in Alaska he developed a communication system with the oil companies to keep them in touch with their offices in Fairbanks and Anchorage, Alaska. In later years he had his own communications company and worked as a radio engineer and a consultant for Alaskan companies.

He was scheduled to receive the "man of the year" award from the Oregon Cable Communication Association next month. According to Jim Movis, cable system manager in Fairbanks, Parsons "worldwide (is) probably one of Astoria's most famous citizens."

Recently, Parsons established KINQ-FM, a country-Western and talk show radio station in Fairbanks.

He was a member of the Pioneer Cable TV Association.

Parsons was also a pioneer aviator. He built his first airplane in 1911 and was a member of the Pioneer Aviators Association.

Surviving are two daughters, Mildred Davis, Corbett, and Yvonne Brown, Gilchrist; a son, Mark Parsons, Washougal, Wash.; two sisters, Violet Cook, Portland, and May Tuckett, Port Angeles, Wash.; and many grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held in Fairbanks.
